FROM THE CO-CHAIRS OF THE BOARD

Dear Friends of CultureWorks Greater Philadelphia,

At a recent board meeting, a board member said, “We are how culture works. We are OF the culture, BY the culture, and FOR the culture.” After a year of reinventions and transformations, we are excited to share with you the accomplishments of our organization and the incredible members we serve across the arts, heritage, and social justice sectors.

This report is a testament to the collective efforts and resilience of our cultural community through challenging times. Over the past year, to provide the highest level of support for our members, we have enhanced our fiscal sponsorship program, upgraded our co-working spaces, and strengthened our administrative systems – all aimed at ensuring our members have the resources they need to grow and thrive. We celebrate the achievements of our members, who are the cultural backbone of Philadelphia.

We extend our deepest gratitude to every member, partner, and friend of CultureWorks for your steadfast support, belief in our mission, and dedication to the cultural vibrancy of Greater Philadelphia. Your contributions, both big and small, have been the cornerstone of our success. As we look forward to the future, we are excited about the new opportunities and challenges that lie ahead and confident in our ability to navigate them together as a community committed to cultural excellence and innovation.

ENSURING SUSTAINABILITY ACROSS CULTURES & CAUSES

CultureWorks Greater Philadelphia is a dynamic organization supporting arts, heritage, and social justice professionals, projects, and initiatives. We're more than a space; we're a community where ideas and resources merge to make significant cultural and social impact. CultureWorks offers equitable access to management resources, empowering individuals and organizations to achieve their potential and thrive.

Our philosophy centers on sharing and leveraging resources to overcome barriers in artistic and cultural expression, particularly for historically marginalized communities. This ethos shapes our services and co-working space management, where members benefit from a collaborative, creative environment.

We remain committed to clarity and trust in our fiscal sponsorship services. In 2023, we updated our fiscal sponsorship agreements and manuals, celebrated milestones for a number of our long-term partnerships, and welcomed seven new initiatives, reflecting Philadelphia's evolving culture. In 2023, we served 88 fiscally sponsored projects: managing over 100 multi-year grants, securing 86 new project grants, executing over 200 contracts, and adding 16 members to projects' payroll.

We worked internally with our staff and board to review policy and programming requests from current members and aligned our financial models accordingly. One example of this project-led adaptivity resulted in a policy where fiscal sponsorship rates are reduced when a project surpasses $1 million in funding in a fiscal year. We also introduced a new yearly certification process, allowing us to promote more active relationships with our projects. Our updated Grant Reporting Calendar has improved funding tracking and accountability, as well as transparency and trust in project expectations and relationships.

We also relaunched our educational workshops, focusing on supporting ongoing learning and skill development necessary for growing organizations and projects. These workshops offered support and new resources around fundraising and marketing, and we plan to introduce a larger and more diverse slate of programming in the coming year.

After a 3-year hiatus due to the COVID-19 pandemic, we were thrilled to reopen our co-working space in April 2023, reinforcing our role as a hub of creativity, collaboration, and community. We significantly revamped the space, with renovations aimed at shaking off the post-pandemic dust and reintroducing an environment that sparks creativity, interaction, and growth among members. The year's major developments include enhanced security systems, new locks, and digital key fobs for improved access and peace of mind.

Responding to community needs, we boosted our internet service for faster, more reliable digital connectivity, and we introduced shared computing resources, increasing accessibility to technology and promoting a culture of resource-sharing. Significant aesthetic and functional enhancements to the office layout included new, carefully chosen office appliances and furniture. These changes have not only improved members' daily experiences but also fostered an atmosphere conducive to creativity and productivity.

Our updated mail and package management system enables members to manage correspondence and deliveries securely and effectively, thus reducing administrative burdens. These enhancements reflect our commitment to providing a premier co-working environment tailored to the needs of Philadelphia's arts and culture community. Member feedback has been overwhelmingly positive, reaffirming the importance of a well-designed and managed space.

PHYSICAL SPACE

Managing our members' finances is one of CultureWorks' most important functions. In 2023, we significantly upgraded our financial systems, emphasizing stability and efficiency. We integrated payroll systems to enable detailed financial analysis and allow employees to independently access their pay stubs. We automated steps on our financial platform to replace manual entry, saving time and increasing accuracy for recurring payments. And by adopting diverse payment methods like CashApp, Venmo, and Zelle, we offered our clients and donors greater transactional flexibility and convenience.

Among our internal system improvements, we transitioned to a cloud-based phone system, a major cost-saving initiative, and also implemented virtual card accounts for managing subscriptions and expenses, leading to increased financial security and improved expense management. Additionally, we upgraded security protocols, implementing new antivirus software, VPN services, and a robust password manager to protect our financial data and transactions in the digital age.

These enhancements reflect our dedication to operational excellence and fiscal responsibility, understanding that a robust financial foundation is essential for supporting our members and advancing our mission. We continue seeking improvements to ensure our financial systems remain strong, secure, and responsive to community needs.
